They also participate in social activities sponsored by the ELC. Above all, the intensive nature of the program supports language development; students attend 20 hours a week of in-class instruction plus lab work. Entering students are tested in order to determine their level of English proficiency and are placed in the appropriate program level according to their performance on the placement test. The ELC has two general types of courses. Foundations Courses focus on basic language skills. Students admitted to this track usually have some foundation in English prior to coming to the ELC. While at the ELC, they will work to improve their skills. Academic Courses focus specifically on preparing students to develop English language skills in order to attend a university where English is the medium of instruction. Students in Academic Courses should have at least a high intermediate level of English proficiency. The table below shows each level offered in both the Foundations and Academic Courses. Students who have the required proficiency to be placed in the University Prep level will be permitted to repeat the level once with the alternate curriculum. A modern computer lab is available in the English Language Center. Tutoring is available to help students with their coursework. Software programs for helping students with listening, speaking, reading, writing, grammar, and TOEFL are available. This is university policy. We expect you will do the same outside of class. You are here to improve your English, the greatest language development will occur when students are using English. Q: Are Academic courses actually university courses? Do I get university credit for them? Academic courses at the ELC are designed to prepare students to use English at a university where English is the medium of instruction. However, the classes are not regular university classes, nor do students earn university credit for them. A: Both curriculums target the same proficiency level but use different content and textbooks to help you develop the language and skills necessary to succeed in university course work. The two curriculums are different but equivalent. The curriculum rotates each semester.
