Instagram Twitter Facebook. The first generation of Daewoo Matiz was launched in , replacing the Daewoo Tico. Since the transition, the vehicle has increasingly been marketed under the Chevrolet badge. The second generation model was introduced by GM Korea in , with the third generation launched in The production of Daewoo Matiz started in and it was sold in South Korea and many European markets with the code name M The exterior design is based on the Lucciola, a Fiat Cinquecento concept by Fabrizio Giugiaro at Italdesign which had been rejected by Fiat. The car became the best selling Daewoo model in Europe and in India for the next four years. It was developed on the basis of the Daewoo Tico , version under license of the Suzuki Alto , with which both Tico and Matiz share mechanics and suspensions. From this origin derives its characteristic narrow width, imposed by the Japanese kei car tax category. The Matiz was originally launched with just a 0. The Tickford connection was acknowledged in the brochures distributed in UK showrooms. It was released mainly with three trim levels: E, S and SE. The latter had air conditioning, wheel covers, body-colored bumpers, rear spoiler, fog lights and a stereo, with optional features such as roof rails, power steering, central locking, electric front windows, ABS and driver airbag. This facelift was designed at Daewoo's Worthing Technical Centre in England and introduced in South Korea in late , and exported from The front-end structure was modified to accommodate a four-cylinder engine, although the introduction of this engine, the 1. The car was launched to the Russian market as the Ravon Matiz in but discontinued soon. In China the car was sold as the Chevrolet Lechi. It remained in production until , when an updated version was introduced as the Baojun Lechi. It is to be offered under both Chevrolet and Baojun brands during a transition period. It featured a range of two petrol engines , which had the following specifications:. The Chery QQ3 , then known as the Chery QQ , became the center of an industrial copyright and intellectual rights controversy, as General Motors claimed the car was a copy of the Daewoo Matiz. GM executives demonstrated the extent of the design duplication, noting for example that the doors of the QQ and those of the Spark are interchangeable [14] without modification. GM China Group indicated the two vehicles "shared remarkably identical body structure, exterior design, interior design and key components" [14] MotorAuthority. The Detroit News reported that "the dispute reflects the confusion, risks and ambitions in China's new auto industry, where global carmakers are battling pugnacious upstarts for a piece of what may become the world's largest auto market. The upper body was significantly revised based again on a design from Italdesign Giugiaro , the S-Tec engines were updated and the car's drag coefficient was lowered, resulting in better fuel economy. The interior was also significantly revised, one notable feature of this car being its centre-mounted instrument cluster. The platform was also revised, with a twist-beam rear suspension system replacing the previous 3-link beam axle, and the front suspension making use of cast, rather than pressed and fabricated, lower control arms. It was sold in over 2. Euro NCAP test results for a 5-door hatchback variant on a registration:. The redesigned Matiz codenamed M was launched in and is based on the Chevrolet Beat concept car. Although sold globally as the Chevrolet Spark, in India this model retains the Beat name from the concept car, as the second generation Spark continues to be sold in this market. Prior to the elimination of the Daewoo marque in South Korea, the third generation Spark was marketed as the Daewoo Matiz Creative. This marque was less successful than the previous models. The Beat is a front drive, three-door hatchback concept, derived from the Daewoo Kalos. It is powered by a 1. The Beat concept sports a Vertigo Green exterior paint job with the same hue carried over to parts of the interior. Its profile is high at the rear and tapering down evenly to the front of the grille. Headlights that appear to extend all the way from the base of the grille to the base of the windshield are LED -type. Twin taillights that extend upward to the back-up lights are also LEDs. The production version was announced at the North American International Auto Show, but only the Beat concept was shown at the time. It was discontinued in February The United States

version of the Chevrolet Spark went into production on April 16, , and arrived in dealerships in August Industry sources have commented on the ongoing reliability issues with the Jatco CVT transmissions. The Spark was the fastest selling car in the United States for July , with just 6 days from when they arrived at dealers to when they were sold. The first facelift was revealed at the Paris Motor Show. The facelift feature a redesigned dual-port grille and front bumper as well as restyled headlamp covers and foglamps. The first facelift model was launched in India in February General Motors launched the diesel version of Chevrolet Beat in the Indian auto market on July 25, The 1. The engine is based on the Fiat Multijet diesel technology. A four-door sedan version was unveiled at the Auto Expo in India as the Chevrolet Essentia as a near-production prototype. The concept version was showcased at the Auto Expo in India, [45] however the production version was never sold in India as GM pulled out from the market. The production version is available in several Latin American markets starting from The Domino's DXP short for "Delivery eXPert" is a Spark customized by Roush Performance for Domino's Pizza , based on the mid-level 1LT trim of the Spark, where it was converted to a revival of a canopy express vehicle which was popular from the s to the s. For this car, the front and rear passenger seats are removed and replaced with storage compartments that can carry 80 pizzas, two 2-liter bottles of soda, and dipping sauces. The left rear passenger door is converted into a warming oven that can only be unlocked with the key fob or a button within the driver's door frame. The Spark's Chevrolet front grille is replaced with a custom-made black front grille with the "Domino's" logo, as well as a custom lower body kit, and all DXP cars have a custom Domino's -themed vinyl wrap with a lighted Domino's roof topper. Production is limited to less than units and once each car reaches , miles, it will be retired and returned to Roush, where it will be restored to stock form and sold as a used Spark all four factory seatbelts and airbags are left fully intact, and covered by plastic panels. The situation has resulted in threatened legal action by a Domino's franchisee. The Spark EV was a limited production 5-door hatchback battery electric vehicle produced by Chevrolet in â€" Spark EV was a compliance car specifically designed to meet the government mandate on automobile manufacturers to increase the penetration of electric automobiles into the fleet of all operating vehicles on the road in certain US states, but was not intended for broad adoption in the broader US market, nor produced and sold in quantities that would meet demand for such vehicles in the open market where no such government rules exist. In October , General Motors announced the planned production of the Chevrolet Spark EV , an all-electric version of the third-generation Chevrolet Spark, with availability limited to select markets. Within the framework of GM's vehicle electrification strategy, [64] the Spark EV was the first all-electric passenger car marketed by General Motors in the U. The electric car was initially powered by a The drive ratio was also changed from 3. It went on sale in the fourth quarter of In North America, the Spark is powered by a 1. The Korean domestic version uses a 1. The Spark was launched for the Mexican market in November 4, , as a model and only offered in the LT and LTZ trim lines, both of them powered by a 1. In , for the model year, the Spark received a mid-cycle facelift. Changes for the Spark include a new third-generation MyLink infotainment system, revised exterior styling cues, the addition of low-speed autonomous emergency braking AEB on selected models, and new exterior color options. In the United States, the facelifted Spark went on sale in the third quarter of as an early model year vehicle. In India, it was launched in as the Daewoo Matiz. In the Philippines , the Matiz was available during the years â€" through the grey market. In , it was released under the name Chevrolet Spark. In Pakistan , the car was initially introduced as Chevrolet Exclusive in From â€" it was manufactured by Nexus Automotive under the name Chevrolet Joy , which has now been replaced by the newer M series and is currently sold as the Chevrolet Spark. In Taiwan , the Matiz was sold under the Formosa brand between and From until , the Matiz was sold in Europe under the Daewoo badge. At the beginning of , FSO began marketing the Matiz under their own brand. In Mexico, the Matiz was introduced to the market in The model was renamed to Pontiac Matiz G2. It was also sold as Pontiac Matiz and Pontiac G2. The Pontiac G2 was discontinued in Mexico after a short run of models as the brand was closed by General Motors. The new version was officially launched as the Chevrolet Spark in August , and the Matiz continues to be sold alongside the Spark. An Mbased vehicle is currently in production in Brazil as a replacement for the Chevrolet Celta. In Colombia , the Matiz was imported by Daewoo distributors between and and then GM Colmotores began to assemble and sell it branded as Chevrolet Spark. In Argentina , the first generation was sold as the Daewoo Matiz through Daewoo importers. The second generation was sold as Chevrolet Spark through Chevrolet dealers. Since , the third generation is available. In Paraguay , it was initially sold as Daewoo Matiz, but from , it is sold through Chevrolet dealers. It includes a unique exterior body kit, interior accent trim panels, unique fifteen-inch 15" aluminum-alloy wheels with dark gray-painted accents, and side-mounted roof rails that can accommodate accessory roof racks.

For that price, the base Spark does not include air conditioning, and comes with a manual transmission. The second generation Spark is still sold, though branded as a 'Spark Lite'. In Iran , the Matiz was produced first imported and later assembled and known as Daewoo Matiz. Sales commenced in February , with two specifications launched. The LS was the base specification, which features steel wheels, central locking as well as Holden's MyLink infotainment system. Totally professional look and feel. Also it gave an excuse for Carla to sing rock and roll and Joseph to play drums as he did on Saturday Night Live as well as direct. The film is based on a short story by Elmore

Leonard, and Stoltz is an insurance investigator looking into the suspicious circumstances surrounding Carla's mansion burning down. Scenarios and theories go back and forth in a battle of wits in a modern-day film noir. As I said in the summary, it's a strange but fun film. Sign In. Get a
